The Society mourns the recent passing of Peggy Loney at the age of 92 years following a lengthy illness. Born in Llandovery, Dyfed, Peggy volunteered with the London Ambulance Service and acted as a driver and paramedic during the horrendous years of the London blitz. At war's end she left the UK for Calgary with her young daughter to be reunited with her soldier and artist husband, Gordon! Over so many years, Peggy was a staunch member of the Society and delighted in wearing her traditional Welsh costume at our functions. She was last able to attend a meeting some 10 years ago at the very outset of her battle with the dreaded Alzheimer ailment that struck her so unkindly! The Calgary Welsh Society extends its deepest sympathy to daughter Anne Walker, son David - and their families! Peggy's enthusiasm and support will be sorely missed!

WELSH FILM NIGHT 38 members attended the Fort Calgary theatre facility for this essentially social event. The business end of the meeting covered the review and formal approval of the Society's 2008 Financial Statements.

DYDD GWYL DEWI 2009 The annual dinner celebration on the evening of February 28 at the Blackfoot Inn was an outstanding success attended by 75 members and friends! Congratulations are due to all who contributed to its organisation and participated in the customary formalities! In particular, we are indebted to our President and Vice-President for their efforts; to member Graham (Wrightson) of Monmouth, for appropriately toasting our abstemious honouree in Adam's Ale; to guest speaker, Peter Sherrington, the eagle-eyed Man of Kent, 'Who soared up to Aber UC as a young man and ultimately alighted as a Welshman', and not least, to the talented Megan Duckett and her accompanist for their delightful song presentation! Cledwyn Haydn-Jones led the gathering in the singing of the National Anthems. Special mention must also be made of a unique artwork donation to the Society by long time member, artist Barry Marks. The work, an attractive silk screening, was raffled during the evening - the lucky winner being Lillian Cutts, a Society friend! Barry's generous gesture is greatly appreciated!

GUEST ADDRESS Peter Sherrington is an authority on the eagles found in Alberta and has the distinction of being the first to identify the massive eagle migrations that take place every spring and fall on the front ranges of our Rockies. He monitors these movements from his home in the Crows Nest Pass. Regarding the eagle population in Wales, his observations were that those found in Snowdonia and other mountainous areas were probably of the White-tailed species and not Golden Eagles - historical descriptions seeming to support this view with evidence also suggesting the Welsh eagle population was eradicated some two centuries ago. Eagles identified in more recent times could have been migrating Irish ones and again, of the White-tailed variety! While the Welsh name for Snowdon happens to be 'Eryri' and that for 'eagle', the word, 'eryr' - various authorities now argue it is unlikely that there is any connection between the two words! 'Eryri' could be a word derived from 'eira' (the Welsh for 'snow') - the English word for an 'eagles nest', spelt 'aerie' or 'eyrie', most likely being of French origin!

THE MONMOUTH LEGACY The historic township that gave its name to the thirteenth county of Wales - apart from being the birthplace of member Graham Wrightson - played a significant role in British and Welsh history from the very earliest of times! By something of a coincidence, another classical scholar from the town, one Geoffrey of Monmouth, had the distinction of writing the 'History of the Kings of Britain' back in the 12th century - the work including The Prophecies of Merlin and a Life of Merlin and both written in Latin verse. They were chiefly responsible for taking the figures of King Arthur and Merlin from the world of Celtic legend and launching them on to the broader stage of European culture. Geoffrey referred to himself as 'of Monmouth' and was, most probably, a Welshman - although in some circles it had been suggested he may have been a Breton! Between 1130 and 1150 AD, Geoffrey was based in Oxford and may have been a canon of the collegiate church of St. George. Consecrated Bishop of St Asaph in 1152 he died there a very short time afterwards!

Prior to Geoffrey's efforts, there was no such thing as recorded British history. Apart from oral tradition, there was just the account of fifth-century Britain written by GILDAS (a monk) in the 6th century and then a disjointed early 9th century compilation known as the History of the Britons! While Geoffrey of Monmouth faced exactly the same problem as the anonymous compiler of the latter work, he managed to solve it in a way that achieved a larger measure of coherence. However, his effort was almost entirely a work of fiction despite which it still became the first great work of the Oxford School of History! In reality he had invented what only then became known as British History! Geoffrey's purposes, in writing fiction masquerading as history were much debated; his views actually taunted the leading English historians of the day so as to provide his own people, the 12th century descendants of the Britons, with something that resembled a civilized past! At that time the English, shame upon them, were beginning to look down on the Welsh race of people as simple savages! The Monmouth area also featured importantly earlier in 1135 AD when the Welsh fought an invading French and English force - a significant triumph being the capture of nearby Caerleon and Usk by Morgan ap Owain, a descendant of the Welsh Kings of Glamorgan! Interestingly, Geoffrey made Caerleon the seat of both King Arthur's Court and that of the legendary Merlin, the primate of all Britain! Caerleon is probably better known today as the site of a Roman fortress!

WALES'S WORLD CUP The scant attention generally given to 7-a-Side international rugby is likely to change dramatically following the success of the Welsh 7's team at the Dubai UAE tournament on March 5, 6 & 7 of this year. A team consisting of talented (yet lesser known) young rugby players triumphed at the first of the 2009 Rugby World Cup 7's competitions. Further meets are scheduled for Hong Kong (27-29 March), Adelaide, Australia, (4-5 April), Twickenham (23-24 May) and Edinburgh (30-31 May). The Welsh squad of 12 players included 11 who went to Wellington (NZ) two weeks earlier and defeated the fancied home team, the 2008 World Cup holders! In the Dubai tourney they beat them again in a quarter final game (15-14), went on to beat 'sevens specialists' Samoa (19-12) in the semi-final and finally, Argentina (19-12) for the Melrose Cup! Captained by Lee Beach (Neath), the squad comprised Rhodri McAtee (Cornish Pirates), Lee Williams (Scarlets), Tom Isaacs and Craig Hill (Newport), Aled Thomas (London Welsh), James Merriman (unattached but a flanker with the Neath club at one time and captain of a recent Wales XV Under 21 team), Tal Selley and Aled Brew (Dragons), Rhys Webb (Ospreys), Richie Pugh (Exeter Chiefs) and Dafydd Hewitt (Cardiff Blues). It must be on the cards for a number of these players to enjoy even greater honours in the future! Head coach, Paul John, is yet another 'Pontypryddian'! [Note: Along with the 'discovery' of Scotch and the sports of golf and curling, the Scots can also be credited with the 7-a-Side format - hence, the Melrose Cup, the impressive gold hardware presented to the Welsh team at Dubai. A team from Scotland won the 'Bowl' award and one representing Zimbabwe, the 'Plate'! In their first tournament game, Canada defeated Scotland (35-14)! In the more recent Hong Kong tournament, Canada beat Wales (19-10).]

THE 2009 6-NATIONS The Welsh representation on the European rugby scene narrowly failed to fulfill another Grand Slam this year despite promising (but unconvincing) wins against Scotland (26-13), England (23-15) and Italy (20-15). Unhappily, they managed to lose against a more enterprising France (21-16) in Paris - capping it all in Cardiff on March 21st by losing to Ireland (17-15) - and only minutes from the end of play! The Grand Slam and Triple Crown hopes were thereby conceded to Ireland! On the same fateful day, England defeated Scotland (26-12) at Twickenham while France really 'went to town' (Rome) and thumped Italy (50-8)! The Irish team last accomplished the Grand Slam in 1948 under the leadership of out-half Jackie Kyle who attended the Cardiff game!

A SUMMER OF RUGBY Through the months of May, June and July of our coming summer, a host of international fixtures are planned by Rugby Canada! An Ireland XV plays Canada in Vancouver on Saturday May 23, a Wales XV plays them in York Stadium Toronto on Saturday May 30 and a USA XV visits Edmonton to play them on July 11. A Churchill Cup series of games with international squads from Argentina, Ireland, Georgia, England and the USA are also planned within the period June 06 to 28. Details of these games are yet to be published by Rugby Canada!

EBBW REBORN A Valleys landmark is set to be transformed into a $25 million family history and genealogy visitor centre. Plans have been announced involving the refurbishment of the General Offices of the now defunct Ebbw Vale Steelworks - converting them into a top historical visitor attraction. The work will include relocation of the Gwent Records Office (one of the largest archives in Wales) and moving it from nearby Cwmbran to the proposed centre. A priceless collection of records (some dating back to the 1300s), presently housed in five kilometres of shelving in Cwmbran, will become the cornerstone of a unique history and genealogy centre at Ebbw Vale!

HE GETS NO RESPECT An obituary in a recent Weekly Telegraph described the passing of a titled Taff in the most disrespectful bit of journalism seen in years (even if deserved) - and even for the British press! A unique piece of writing and frank to the extreme, painted a rather sad biographical picture of its subject in a quarter page screed! A sub-heading, immediately below the deceased's name, read 'Notorious Lothario known as the Conquistador of the Canapé Circuit or simply Dirty Dai', was the outrageous introduction to the passing of Sir Dai Llewellyn (David St Vincent Llewellyn), at the age of 62! Aberdare born, he was the son of Olympic equestrian gold medalist Col. Harry Llewellyn (of Foxhunter fame) and brother to Roddy Llewellyn, paramour of the late Princess Margaret! Originally of Monmouthshire yeomanry stock the family found coal under the little bit of land they farmed - the Lloyd George era baronetcy apparently being 'wangled' (as suggested in the obituary) during D.Ll.G's term as PM. Sir Dai, the fourth holder of the title, spent his early childhood at Gobion Manor near Abergavenny and then at Llanfair Grange also in Monmouthshire. Educated (partly) at Eton he went on to the University of Aix-en-Provence (France) then returning to Britain to embark on the career 'of a fully fledged cad and bounder!' [It is worthy of note, the University of Aix-en-Provence is associated with a Swedish language academy teaching French as a second language. Its status would be far from being comparable to an 'Ivy League' or even a 'Red Brick' seat of learning - the so called 'crachach' (nobility) probably referring to it as a 'Finishing School for young gentlemen and ladies'!]

After a brief term as a salesman with Quantas Airways, Sir Dai ran a travel agency in Cardiff and then, on the invitation of the owner of London's Playboy Club, became its social secretary - an appointment he himself aptly described, 'as being able to sit at a table, drink a lot of claret, eat a lot and have a simply lovely time!' The Playboy Club objective, seemingly (or more seemly maybe), to provide better window-dressing for its business, notably, 'To bring the Arabs in!' He became a permanent fixture in the London gossip columns with amorous associations that included the daughters of Orson Welles and Cardiffian Ronald Dahl and numerous other 'young gals!' Dirty Dai seemed to have few scruples or moral and ethical values! Verbatim quotations in response to the supposed betrayal of his brother's royal 'adventure' prompted him to describe Roddy as, 'A snob and a resentful little twerp' and, '... that he had become bored to tears by the little twit!' They were reconciled before Dai was finally laid-out by the undertaker! (Blood must be far thicker than claret, eh?) In the reality of the story, only the 'Foxhunter' name will likely live on - remembered fondly as a stylish and talented stallion by all lovers of equestrian events, of course! After succeeding his father to the baronetcy in 1999, Sir Dai purchased a house in Wales but left after a few years claiming he had been driven out by rampant nationalism! Before leaving, however, he injected a little excitement into a Welsh Assembly election campaign by contesting the Cardiff North seat for the UK Independence Party. The poor soul finished last with an unconvincing 3.7 percent of the poll - Britain's withdrawal from the EU being his pet political peeve! If he had been born a US citizen one wonders, with his brand of talent, could he have succeeded to the Oval Office? We know a couple of other like fellows who did - and not too far back in time either!

DYLAN'S BIRTHPLACE A stay at this beautiful and faithfully restored Edwardian house, 5 Cwmdonkin Drive, Swansea, offers visitors with an interest in Wales, Dylan and the '...ugly, lovely town ... by the side of a long and splendid curving shore ...' which shaped his works, a unique opportunity to enjoy the famous author's birth house! Society members are offered an introductory rental rate, not available to the general public, at a greatly reduced price - ONLY found by contacting the following dedicated website, www.5cwmdonkindrive.com/offer.htm.
